Templeton Community Center

How an aging former school building will transform into a modern, lasting sanctuary for community spirit.

the Opportunity

The City of Templeton is in the process of acquiring the former Sacred Heart School building and transforming it into a community center. While the school has unofficially served this role for many years, Templeton has never had a true community center facility. This is a great opportunity to transform a local landmark into a spacious, multi-purpose gathering and recreation facility that will be the envy of west central Iowa.

the Vision

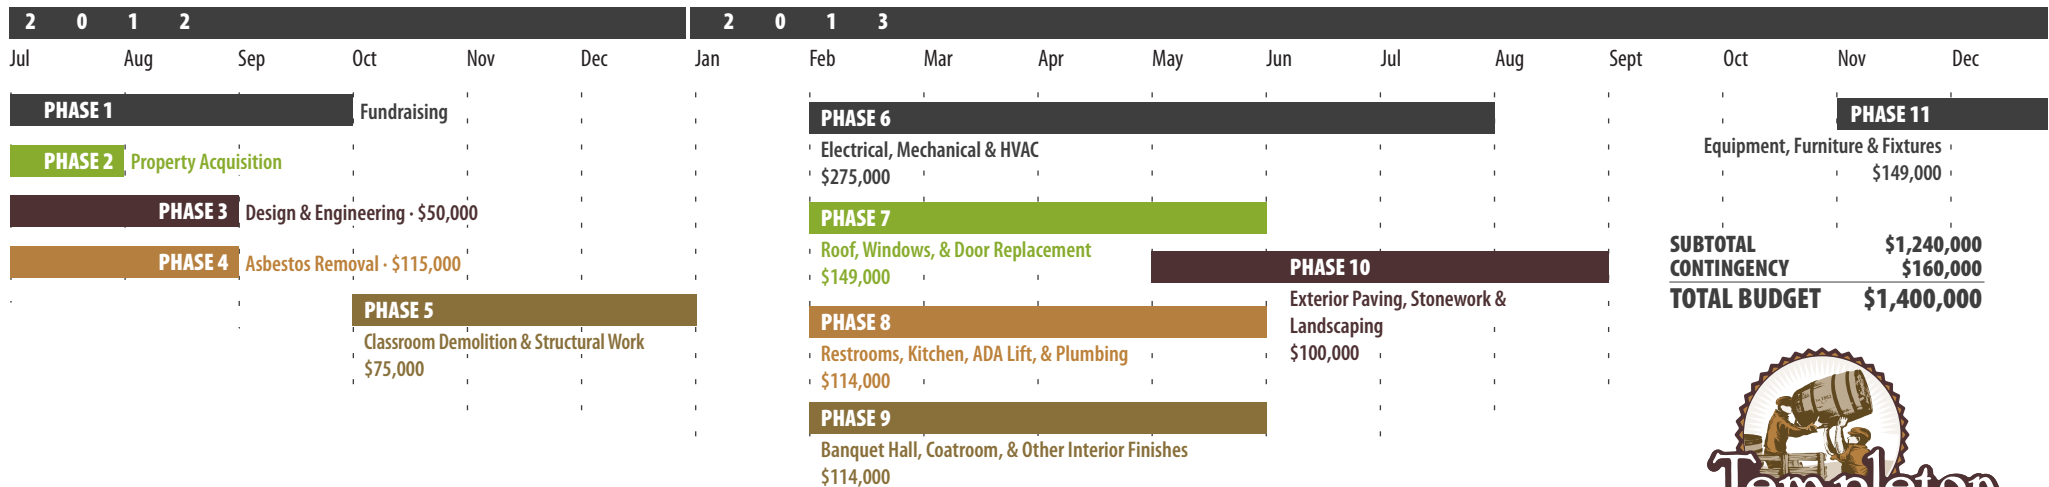

A community center in Templeton has been discussed for many years, and many different options have been explored. The school is well-built, sound, and has a favorable layout that, with the right updates and modifications, can be transformed into a premier facility to serve the community for generations to come. The community center will also provide opportunities to bring more people to Templeton and become a catalyst for continued growth.

the Fundraising

At $1.4 million, this is a very ambitious project, but Templeton is known for its determination. This project is important and worthwhile. We are growing, the future is bright, and this project is an investment in our future. It will take a major financial commitment from many, which is why we are asking for your contribution. As of May 1, 2012, we have already raised $400,000, which is a great start. Please help us close the gap and make this worthwhile project a reality.

the Timeline

*All costs and time frames are estimates.

the Plan

The proposed design and improvements will have all of the features of a true community center. The signature aspect is the new banquet hall that will be transformed from the former classroom and office areas, which will seat 450. Restrooms will be expanded and modernized, the kitchen will be updated, and the library will be remodeled into a conference room. The facility will be completely updated and will be capable of hosting numerous types of events including weddings, conferences, banquets, and athletic events.
